We find the case of Reid v Leighton bette. put in a letter addressed to the Shanghai Daily Shipping List, than we put it-or rather then the defendant put it. The following is concise and we should say conclusive.

"The facts of the ease which are admitted or both sides are these: Mr. Reid bought (through u broker) from Measrs. Leighton & Co. 8,000 piculs of Rice, and in due time paid to their nard to the effect that Sir F. Brace consented Compradore the full amount, receiving in return to the misappropriation of a million of tacks three godown orders written on the defendant's | to prevent the steamers falling into the hands them to belong to a series, and signed for the firm by a clerk who had been in their employ for more than a year, and who is so still. And then our contemporary's credulity He tells us that he has received information to the effect that "Mr. Lay held a document diotated by himself and held by Prince Kung which elethed him with powers of a discre-"tionary nature." Why our contemporary must know, that whatever powers Mr. Lay held were sent to him after he left China, and therefore could not have been dictated by himself. As for the fleet going away on Sir F. Bruce's bidding, that simply proves mal fides on the part of Mr. Lay and Capt. Osborne. To cap these peurile canards, our contemporary gives currency to the absurd rumor that "Sir 1. Bruce has guaranteed a million of tacks out of our indemnity against the expenses of the fleet returned, or sent elsewhere to be sold, so that the vessels might not full into the hands of the rowdies if dis-"posed of on this coast." Now did ever any body hear such intolerable trash? Sir F. Bruce certainly did once guarantee to the Canton local authorities the expense of filling in the Shameen site, to be deducted from the indemnity and had the arrangement repudiated for his pains-but the idea of his approprinting an Imperial indemnity to such a purpose as our contemporary iodicates is absurd. The head of the Commissariat department, or a Captain of a man of war, might abscord with a portion of the indemnity money, which is a ridiculous idea enough -but to suppose that with a cheese-paring Chancellor of the Exchequer like Gladstone that a British minister dare appropriate a dollar of a fixed indemnity, after the warning above stated, is a positive insult to one's com-

The larger to say the least very suspicious, especially steamers, are the greater their relative speed, efter the cleverly studied testimony on the and the cheaper their proportionate cost. For instance, the difference between the size of a On this second trial however, Leighton's a steamer of 2000 tons and one of 3000 tons evidence so utterly damaged his case, that we is 50 per cent-but the difference in the cost be made to pay at present between England "I did show anxiety to get the godown and Panama, and the development of trade In another portion of the testimony he ad- tons necessary, passengers bound to Australia

The same calculation holds good as regards payment in full from the Compradore, or a name to New Zealand and Australia, it will be the same thing us far as the expenses go, In another place he avers. "I do not con- whether they take no treasure at all, or whevalue. Therefore considering the treasure and passenger traffic to and from New Zealand and the Australia colonies, it caunot be doubted that the inducements of having plently to do on the Pacific is considerable Again, between Panams and the Australian colonies, the winds always prevail from the East, so that in going to Australia little steam need be used. In returning, it is probable of course both freight and passengers would be picked up.

The Prospectus places much reliance on Ten can be carried by this route from China to England in 60 days. The boats of the Messageries Imperiales Company can take tens go empty-and assuredly if it would pay steamers to carry cargo hence to Panama and thence to England, it would pay the Messageries Imperiales to reduce then rates and fill their immense bonts instead of sending them stupty. But the fact is that when ever-
